ABSTRACT:

PROBLEM TO BE SOLVED: To prevent education from being insufficient for becoming a consultant to acquire ISO certification of individual and support when a client acquires the ISO certification after that, and to enable the client to acquire inexpensive and satisfactory ISO certification.

SOLUTION: An individual takes education on consultant training and practical training at a franchise chain (abbreviated as FC hereafter) for acquisition of the ISO certification, after that becomes independent as an FC consultant and obtains information to be required for the ISO certification of the client from an FC support center via the Internet. After completion of the acquisition of the ISO certification of the client, the latest and best certified manuals are collected in the FC support center by acquiring new information to come from its experience and the FC consultant can easily obtain the acquisition of the ISO certification.
